INTRODUCTION

Every legal jurisdiction in Vestavia Hills – federal (United States); state (Alabama); county (Jefferson) and municipal (Vestavia Hills) – has separate requirements for new businesses. As a new business owner, it will be your responsibility to be aware of and comply with those requirements.

This publication, Starting a Business in Vestavia Hills, Alabama, outlines the usual requirements for opening a business in Vestavia Hills. In addition, it lists many of the agencies and departments that assist small businesses in start-up and in ongoing operations. While this publication is meant to be a comprehensive overview, it is not intended to be a complete guide.

PLANNING

Selecting a Legal Structure

Sole Proprietorship: In a sole proprietorship, the individual is the one and only owner and employer. Since his or her personal assets are not legally separated from the business, personal, as well as business assets, are subject to claim from business creditors. When filing taxes, the owner includes a Schedule C form with his or her 1040 Income Tax Form to report business income and is taxed a special self-employment tax rate on that income. This is the simplest business form and is usually best for small businesses with low liability risks.

Partnership: The primary difference in a partnership and a sole proprietorship is the number of owners: a partnership has more than one. In many cases, this enables the business to pool together more start-up money and provides the business with the expertise of multiple owners. However, unless otherwise stated in a formal written agreement, each partner is liable for all of the partnerships debts, as well as the actions of the other partners. In addition to filing a Schedule C Form with Income Tax Form 1040, the partnership must submit Form 1065 to report the business profits withdrawn by each partner.

Corporation: This entity is the most complex and requires filing of Articles of Incorporation with the Secretary of State, registration of the corporation's name and franchise tax filing. A lawyer[s counsel is often recommended when choosing to incorporate. A corporation is a separate legal entity independent of the owners, called "shareholders". Thus, liability is limited. The primary drawback to a corporation is that profits are taxed twice, once through the corporation and once as personal income of the shareholder(s).

Subchapter S Corporation: This type of corporation eliminates the double taxing described above while continuing to limit liability. While certain restrictions apply, many small businesses are eligible for this form of legal entity.

Limited Liability Company: This new form of organization offers the beneficial tax status of a partnership and provides limited liability to all of its members. An LLC must have at least two (2) members and those members may include individuals, corporation, partnerships or other entities.

Analyzing the Market

One of the most important steps to take when planning for a new business is to research and verify that a demand exists for the product or service you will offer. This may involve studying population statistics and buying habits in your area. You will have to analyze the competition to determine if there is room for another competitor. Sometimes a survey is necessary to document the existence of a strong market for your product. You will also need to decide what kind of advertising you will use and find out how much it will cost. Counselors at the UAB Small Business Development Corporation (SBDC) can assist you in studying and analyzing your market.

Choosing a Location

First, you must find a location that is zoned for business. If you work out of your home, make sure you are not disrupting your neighborhood's residential quality or violating its zone restrictions. If you have a commercial location, make sure you understand the lease (as a general statement, you should negotiate as short a term as possible) Research the business history of that location and the growth projections. Information on choosing a good location for your business is available at the SBDC. Also contact the City Clerk's office at (205) 978-0100.

Purchasing and Pricing Your Product or Service

Pricing is very important. Factors to consider are your cost for the product or raw materials, labor, profit level and competitiveness. Where will you buy your materials or product? What are your future suppliers (vendors) credit terms, delivery schedules and freight charges? Counselors at the UAB Small Business Development Corporation (SBDC) can assist you in studying and analyzing your market.

Insurance

Almost all businesses need liability insurance. In addition, you may need fire insurance and your employees may need to be bonded (if they come in contact with customer's personal belongings). Your insurance agent can recommend other types of insurance coverage you should consider for your business, including key man and business interruption insurance.

Projecting Sales and Costs: Setting Reasonable Goals

Profits/loss projections are vital to planning and managing a business. Based on your market analysis and pricing, you should forecast your monthly sales for at least the first year of operation. Monthly costs, including such factors as raw product cost or materials, rent, utilities, insurance, wages, payroll taxes, advertising, etc. should be deducted to arrive at your monthly profit or loss. You also need to determine how much sales volume is necessary to cover expenses (break-even point).

Be sure to question your forecasts and their assumptions. What are you going to do if your sales are only half of what you projected? Is your advertising budget sufficient? How are you going to recruit new employees? What will you do if your primary competitor lowers his prices 50% in an attempt to maintain market share? You can't ask yourself enough questions. It will help to prepare you for that time when the unexpected that "won't happen", does. The SBDC has a variety of resources available to facilitate financial planning and their counselors can work with you in creating your projections.

Financing

Most businesses fail for one of two reasons: (1) poor planning and/or (2) inadequate financing. Analyze your start-up costs in terms of initial inventory, equipment, the first three months of operating expenses, utility deposits, etc. If you find you must seek outside financing, you will need to prepare a formal business plan, which will include in detail the information described in the topics above. In most cases, collateral (in the form of land, property, or other fixed assets) will be necessary to secure the loan. Counselors at the SBDC can help you prepare a solid business plan and discuss with you the different sources of financing available for small business owners, including the SBA 7-A program; certified development company programs; state programs; and federal programs

In some cases, the SBA (through its SBA 7-A program) will guarantee or co-sign a bank loan in an amount up to $750,000. The process begins with the loan application through a bank with the maximum guarantee being 80% on loan amounts under $100,000 and 75% on loan amounts more than $100,000.

Local certified development company programs, working with the SBA, package 504 loans on land, buildings, and long term fixed assets for businesses with good job creating potential. Local certified development companies include:

Alabama Community Development Corporation
90 Bagby Drive, Suite 111
Homewood, AL 35209
(205) 945-4996

Birmingham City Wide Local Development Company
110 12th Street North
Birmingham, AL 35203
(205) 250-6380

Southern Development Council
135 South Union Street, Suite 256
Montgomery, AL 36130
(334) 264-5441

State and federal programs include Urban Development Assistant Grants and State Economic Development Loans. They are usually limited to industry and manufacturing companies that will locate in economically distressed areas and employ 15 or more persons.

LEGAL OBLIGATIONS

Business Licenses

If you plan to transact business for money in the city of Vestavia Hills, you will need a business license in Vestavia Hills and Jefferson County. In addition, your type of business may be subject to a state license requirement, which is issued through the county government.

Many businesses have sales or service people who travel from city to city and county to county. Each city or county has the authority to require a license of some type if a sale is attempted within its jurisdictional boundaries. You should always check with the entities involved before attempting to do business in a new area, especially if you plan to be in that area frequently.

The cost of business licenses varies greatly from location to location and from business to business. They are usually issued for one year, although some locations offer special licenses of a shorter duration for traveling peddlers, auctioneers or others who only do business in the area periodically. Describe all of the functions of your business carefully to the issuing agent to be sure you receive the proper license type, since many activities (discussed in the next paragraph) require special endorsements.

For guidance on Vestavia Hills requirements, contact the Finance Office at (205) 978-0126. The Jefferson County Finance office may be contacted at (205) 325-5180.

Special Restrictions

The sale of items such as tobacco, gasoline, oil, beer and alcoholic beverages require special license permits and must meet zoning ordinances.

Any establishment selling food or operating swimming pools (and/or whirlpools) must be inspected by the county health department.

If you are building, remodeling, or adding on your business site, you must have a construction permit. You may also need to have an inspection by the fire marshal.

Some businesses, such as day care centers, need special licenses.

Restaurants, bars and similar businesses must pay a sewer impact fee.

And, the list could go on and on. Just be sure to describe all of the functions of your business carefully to the issuing agent to be sure you receive the proper license type.

Addresses and phone numbers of the agencies that control such regulation are listed later in this section.

Record Keeping

The IRS does not require a specific record keeping format, but it does require that clear, easy to follow records be kept and that net income is readily discernible. You should open a business checking account prior to your first day of business. Deposits should be made daily and all expenses should be paid by check. Don't pay bills from the cash register. And, don't pay personal bills from your business checking account. In fact, keep all of your personal money separated from your business. When investing your personal money into the business, deposit your funds by check into the business' checking account, when you make purchases or pay expenses for the business, do so from the business' checking account. When withdrawing profits from the business, do so by check from the business checking account.

Double entry accounting is a bookkeeping method most often recommended for small business owners. Counselors at the SBDC are available to give you this type of bookkeeping instruction. Bookkeeping services and accountants can also be employed to assist you with good record keeping.

Employer's Regulations

The Civil Rights Act, enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, made it illegal for employers to discriminate in employment due to race, color, religion, sex, age or national origin. In addition, the Equal Pay Act of 1963 requires equal pay for equal work regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age or national origin. The minimum wage is currently set at $5.15 per hour. For non-exempt (non-salaried) employees, any time worked over 40 hours per week must, by law, be compensated at 1.5 times the normal hourly rate.

In Alabama, employers may not demand union affiliation nor discriminate against union affiliation.

Employees called to jury duty must be paid their regular wages less jury compensation.

Children under 14 can be employed, but they are required to have a work permit from their school.

Children 14-16 can only be employed after school hours and during vacations, but can not be employed in hazardous occupations.

Taxes

Federal: All business must report income and pay taxes to the federal government. In no quarter may taxes owed on income exceed $500. Therefore, many businesses are required to make quarterly tax deposits (using Form 941). If you have no employees, you may use your social security number as your tax identification number . corporations must use tax Form 1120.

If you are an employer, you must file your taxes under an Employer Identification Number obtained by filing Form SS-4. You must obtain a W-4 form from each of your employees and withhold federal income tax and social security tax from their wages. You must report annually on Form W-2 all amounts withheld from your employees' paychecks. In addition, you must pay unemployment taxes (Form 940) and your business' portion on the social security taxes for each one of your employees. Monthly deposits to the IRS are often required to keep these taxes owed below $500. Wages paid to independent contractors must be reported on Form 1099.

The SBDC sponsors monthly seminars with the IRS on how to file federal income taxes and payroll taxes.

State: All businesses must report to the state and pay taxes on income. Lease taxes apply in certain situations so you must check with the City Clerks office at (205)978-0127. In addition, they must collect and deposit sales taxes after applying for a sales tax number (Form ST-1). If you are a wholesaler or are otherwise exempt from collecting sales taxes, you must apply for a sales tax exemption number.

Corporations must file Form 20 and pay a franchise tax.

If you are an employer, you must obtain a state income tax withholding number to withhold your employees' state income taxes. You must also pay a state unemployment tax on each employee's wages.

County: Businesses not exempt from state tax must also collect and deposit a county sales tax. The county also assessed property taxes. If you are an employer, you may have to withhold a county occupational tax from your employees' wages. In Jefferson County the rate is 0.5%.

The following special notes on health and sanitation apply to restaurants located in Jefferson County (and hence Vestavia Hills). Alabama.

For Food Inspection and State Regulations: Contact the Jefferson County Health Department – Food Division at (205) 930-1260. Ask for an inspector. The Food Division can provide restaurants with a copy of the state food/health regulations.

Sanitation/Sewage: Contact the Jefferson County Sewer Department – Impact Office regarding sewer fees and permits at (205) 325-5138. For new restaurant construction or renovation that includes additional seating for restaurants with washable/reusable dishes and glasses, there will be a sewer impact fee of $100 per seat. For fast food restaurants, (i.e. McDonalds), there will be a fee based upon water consumption. This is a one time fee. Subsequent owners who do not add seating may be required to get a permit for building renovations, but will not be required to pay an impact fee, unless the building has been unoccupied and not used as a restaurant for more than one (1) year. For septic tank regulation and inspection, contact the Jefferson County Sanitary Engineering Department at (205) 930-1230.

City: Many cities (including Vestavia Hills) levy a sales tax, which must be collected and deposited by qualifying businesses. Vestavia Hills does not have a city occupational tax, but there is a lease tax payable based on the gross amount of any property leased for personal or business use.

The city of Vestavia Hills does not provide for the pick-up of commercial garbage. With the obvious exception of those businesses leasing space in commercial office building, mall or shopping center, it is each business owner's responsibility to contract for garbage pick-up. Please verify what your responsibility will be before you lease space or purchase a building.

Utilities

Telephone Service

Call South Central Bell at 557-6000 (in state) or (205) 327-3200 (out-of-state) to arrange for business service and a telephone number. Call 991-1910 for your Yellow Pages listing. Businesses automatically receive a one-line, one-heading listing in the White Pages and in the Yellow Pages.

Electrical Service

Call Alabama Power Company at 326-800; give the clerk your business address and you will be told which area office to contact for fees and deposit requirements.

Water Service

Call the Birmingham Water works at 251-3261; the clerk will check the account for your business address and tell you the amount of deposit required.

Gas Service

Call Alagasco at 326-8200; if gas was used at your business address previously, your deposit will be based on previous usage. If you need new service, the clerk will arrange for marketing personnel to contact you, visit the sight and determine your deposit.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Government Procurement

Once your business is well established and you can handle government size jobs, you may be interested in procurement. When a government agency plans construction work or needs to buy a product or service, it sends out a bid request. The SBDC gets a list of many bid requests daily and has set up a computer system, by which bid requests can be matched with the abilities of their clients. When a match occurs, we contact the client who may then obtain a bid package from the government agency and prepare a bid. There are other bid request listings available as well, such at The Commerce Business Daily found in most libraries. If you are interest in being on the SBDC procurement system, call to schedule an appointment with a counselor.

International Trade

If your business is interested in International Trade, the following agencies can provide valuable counseling and assistance:

United States Department of Commerce
U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service
950 22nd Street North, Room 707
Birmingham, AL 35203
